Chapter Meeting and Illustrated Talk:
Sacred Architecture

Bart Mendel

Join us for an insightful educational evening as we explore what classical architects have in common with the architects of sacred spaces of the past. This presentation will examine Sacred Architecture and its application to modern times. Based on his 35-year immersion in the field of sacred symbolism, Bart Mendel will discuss the notion of sacredness through the lens of eastern and western architectural traditions. The talk will focus on the creation of harmony in design, presented through the ancient oriental tenet of the hierarchy of heaven, earth and man. Through understanding these concepts we create the proper relationship between humans and their environment, bringing together and balancing inspiration and practicality.

Bart Mendel is President of Stonemark Construction Management and a board member of the ICAA Southern California Chapter. Bart has been a Buddhist practitioner and teacher for 35 years and has taught meditation and philosophy extensively throughout the US, Canada and Europe.
